ELMIRA, N. Y., April 11.—The police at Corning had a lively chase after train robbers last night. The officers were first called to and James Stewart without bail as accessoquell a disturbance among a lot of tramps who had broken in a freight car in an out going train and afterwards got into a free fight among themselves. After a desperate struggle one of the tramps was captured. Later the police were again called out. The gang had returned and stoned the brakemen away from the train. A chase of the desperadoes followed. One of them was shot, but the others escaped. One man, however was finally captured shortly after midnight by the Chief, who brought him to a stand-still by firing at him. The thieves succeeded in obtaining a box containing ten pairs of ladies shoes. The burglars were the boldest County. The negroes had a rope and were preparing to hang Scott, but were dissuaded by a white man who happened to come upon the scene. The murderer was locked in the and most daring that the Corning police have ever dealt with. They pursued their work and kept opening cars when they knew the officers were in pursuit. At least five cars were broken into. There was a quantity of fuse and a powder-blower found upon those continued and they are undoubtedly profescaptured and they are undoubtedly profes

LONDON, April 11.—The British authorities have applied for a warrant against Deeming, the murderer, so that he may be brought to England and prosecuted for the Rainhill crimes, in case the prosecution in Australia ould result in failure to convict. The application has been made at Widnes, Lancashire, within the magisterial jurisdiction where the Rainhill murders were perpe trated. One of the newspapers republishes the account from the Frescott Reporter, of the banquet given by Deeming, alias Williams, at the time that he left England with Miss Mather, the wife whom he murdered at Melbourne. It reads queerly now. "On Wednesday evening Mr. Albert C. Williams, an Inspector of the Indian Army Service, who is on a short visit to England, and who has taken up his residence in Reinhill while in this country, entertained at the Railway and Commercial Hotel, Rainhill, a number of the residents of the village whose friendship he has made during his sojourn among them. The menu was of an excellent character. After full justice had been done to the good things provided, Mr. Williams presided and Mr. Shorter occupied the vice chair. The usual loyal and patriotic toasts having been submitted and responded to, one of the guests in a felicitous speech proposed the account from the Prescott Reporter, of the having been submitted and responded to, one of the guests in a tellettous speech proposed the "Health of their host, Mr. Williams." He said that whiist that gentleman had been with them in Rainhill, he had made many friendships, which he sincerely hoped, now that he was going away again to foreign service, would tend for many hours when ennul set in to bring back to his mind the many pleasant and social evenings he had spent with them at Rainhill. The toast was enthusiastically drunk, with musical honors. Mr. Williams, in reply, thanked his guests for the hearty way in which they had received his name. He had been in many climes and had mixed with many nations, but he must say that he never in his life meta more sociable number of friends than he nad done at Rainhill. During the evening musical selections were cliven by the host. (Mr. Williams) Rainhill. During the evening musical selec-tions were given by the host (Mr. Williams) and others. AN EASY PREY.

A MISSOURI SHERIFF ENTERTAINED AND

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., April 11.-Ex-Sheriff C. Spears of Polk County came to the city last Friday en route to Oklahoma. During the day Mr. Spears made the acquaintance of a young man who was very friendly and interesting. The young stranger seemed to be well versed in the mystic work of several fraternal societies to which Mr. Spears belongs. He gave all the test signs of these respective brotherhoods, and rather took the Polk County gentleman under his care, showing him the city with a most generous zeal. In the afternoon about 5 o'clock the stranger invited Mr. Spears to walk down to the Gulf Depot, representing that he lived in that section of the city. The two men had already taken several drinks together and the bond of fraternity was growing quite strong. They strolled down the Gulf track and stopped in at a saloon to take another drink. Here a third man put in an appearance and asked the two friends to change for him a $20 bill. Mr. Spears could not make the change for the stranger, but took out his pocketbook and showed the contents to the two men. In an instant the "friend" who had been so devoted during the day knocked Mr. Spears down with a club, robbed him and ran away. Spears recovered from the blow in a few seconds and gave chase to the fleeing robber, who shouted to the top of his voice as he ran, "stop thef! is top thief!" thus diverting the attention of the people who saw the race. The robber made good his escape and Mr. Spears came back to town and notified the police. The officers pursued the villain to Nichols' Junction and there lost all trace of him. longs. loaded. Working its way to the upper deck, it gutted the forward saloon and officers' rooms. The officers lost nearly all their personal effects. The crew's quarters in the after part of the deck were also damaged and the men lost much of their property. Two streams were poured in from the wharf hydrants, and nine streams from the fire lengines. Besides tihs, Assistant Engineer Thomas Emerson was sticking at his pumps on the Fitchburg, surrounded by burning freight and showered with burning embers, yet stuffing his wet handerkerchief in his mouth and lying flat on his face, he remained at his post until the blaze was extinguished. Two tugs also set on powerful streams of salt water. Freight on the wharf was rapidly removed and much of the steamer's cargo thrown overboard and was picked up uninjured except by water. The flames finally succumbed after a hard struggle. The steamer is insured and it is thought her cargo is also. The damage has not yet heen estimated, but it will be heavy. HQLIDAYSBURG, Pa., April 11.-Early yesterday morning three masked burglars entered the house of John Daly, an aged soldler, to steal his pension money. When he refused to give up the cash they bound his hands and feet, tied him to a chair and began torturing him. They stabbed him with a knife and feet, tied him to a crair and began torturing him. They stabbed him with a knife and held a lamp under his ear, burning that organ to a crisp. The old man still refused to tell the hiding place of his money, and one of the men knocked him senseless with the butt of his revolver. They then ransacked the house, chopped up the floor with a hatchet and tore the plaster from the walls, but did not find the money. They vented their chagrin by kicking their senseless vietlm.

The men then went to the house of Miss Olive McDowell, an aged woman, dragged her from bed, bound her in a blanket, gagged her and tied her to a bedpost. They then began a systematic torture to make her tell where her money was. They jabbed a knife into her body, and one of the men struck her in the left eye with his revolver, destroying her sight in that eye. It is feared that she will die. The robbers got no plunder and left no clue as to their identity.

VIENNA, April 11. -Since the fire in the Ring strasse on Thursday night, the sixth of the series of incendiary fires that had then occurred in Vienna within a week, the firemen have been kept busy responding to alarms in various parts of the city. Extraordinary vig-ilance has been observed and has resulted in the fires being discovered in their inciniency and extinguished before any material damage was done. All those fires gave evidence of being of incendiary origin, and no doubt is entertained that they were the work of Anarchists or extreme socialists, between whom it would be hard to distinguish a diference. The general feeling of uneasines and insecurity continues to grow and a great number of the residents of the city hav ployed private watchmen to guard their property against attempts to fire it. Many people, among whom are some police officials, believe that the incendiarism is not so much for the purpose of causing terror among the upholders of law as it is for the purpose of robbery during the excitement attending the fires. The police at every fire, no matter how slight, attend in force and a close watch is kept on all the near-by build ings to prevent thieves from robbing them. Vienna is not the only place that is in a state of excitement because of incendiary fres. At Lionfelden, in Upper Austria, there have been several fires of this kind within the past few days, and the people are very indig-nant. It will go hard with the incendiaries if

Mrs. Garfield Secures a Foreign Appointment for Him.

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 11,-Cyrus W. Field, Jr., of New York is to be given a place in the foreign service. He may be sent abroad to fill one of the vacancies existing in the consular service, and it is not improbable that a secretaryship of legation may be tendered to him.

This announcement will be something of a surprise to Mr. Field's friends, who have known him heretofore as a dilettante and man about town. His efforts to secure employment for himself are rendered necessary, ployment for himself are rendered necessary, he says, by the financial reverses which the head of the family has recently suffered.

He decided some months ago that he would like to go abroad in a representative capacity. He expressed a wish for a place in the consular service, and secretary Tracy, Col. Elliott F. Shepard and other well-known New Yorkers interested themselves in his behalf. They laid the matter before President Harrison and the latter promised to give it careful consideration.

They laid the matter before President Harrison and the latter promised to give it careful consideration.

About ten days ago Mrs. Garfield, widow of President Garrield, came to Washington to visit her daughter, Mrs. J. Stanley Brown. She heard of Mr. Field's application and she heard, too that the young man was not at all disturbed by the President's delay in acting favorably upon it. She went at once to the Executive Mansion and sought an interview with Mr. Harrison.

The latter inquired the reason of her interest. She replied that she owed everything she had to the kindness of Cyrus W. Field, Sr. Then she went on to tell the President that after the death of her husband in the autumn of 1881, Mr. Field inaugurated the movement looking to the creation of a fund for the maintenance of her children and herself. Mr. Field himself was a liberal contributor and through his exertions the amount finally aggregated $300,000 which was carefully invested in her name.

"Now," she added, "the elder Field is broken in health and purse and the least I can do is to raise my voice in behalf of the son, who desires supployment where he may support himself." It was, she said, the only favor she had ever asked of President Harrison, and it was the only one she would ever ask if the latter would grant it. The President promised to do as she asked, and sent for Mr. Field and had a talk with him. He told him the pay of consular officers was boggarly as a rule. But he assured him if he wanted to go abroad that the privilege would be given him. Mr. Field insisted, however, that he needed the salary, no matter how small, and the President told him to go back to New York and await the appointment.

The instructor had been to the city during the day to attend church, and the ten boys, constituting a regular crew of the school, left the island. The trip is considered perfectly safe under ordinary circumstances, having been made for years, even during the winter months, without accident. As a precaution, however, in view of the breeze, the crew took a single sail boat instead of a double sail craft, in which the trip is often made. The trip to the Point was made, and after 7 p. m. the boat started on the return trip.

Curtailing Oil Production.

PITTSBURG, Pa., April 11.-A number of the leading oil producers in the Southwest are taking action looking to a general suspension taking action looking to a general suspension of the drilling operations for a period of six months, from about May I. Many of the largest operating individuals, firms and companies, with headquarters in this city, have already signed the agreement, which is so drawn that it must be signed by all producing companies or it is to be null and void. The idea meets with general favor among the operators, who bind themselves to build no rigs nor start any wells to drilling before the 18th of October, except under specified circumstances. Of course the idea is to curtail production, and in the natural course of things to raise prices.

Turkish bonds. ority bonds and a small sum of Mexican nds were issued in Paris for £8,400 with the Marine Insurance Co., and dispatched left by train Jan. 11, 1890, and were placed on board the Southeastern Co.'s steamer on their arrival at Boulogne by the officials of the railway company. On the arrival of the boat at the English shore the arrival of the boat at the English shore the majority of the bonds which had been taken on board were found properly locked up in the safe, but two parcels—those insured for £4,800—were neither there nor in any other part of the vessel. Similar robberles occurred in the month of March last year.

Chief Inspector Abbeline of Scotland Yard was sent over to Boulogne to see if he could recognize among the passengers arriving there any person known to him as reputed.

there any person known to him as reputed robbers. April 8 he caused to be arrested by the French police four men whom he saw leaving the steamer Breeze. One of them, a man named Powell, was found to be vigorously masticating something. A French police officer, seeing this, seized him by the jaws, and, forcing them open, took out of his mouth a mass of somewhat pulpy pa-per, which turned out to be a cloak room ticket of an article left at the Victoria Staion. In Powell's hand another ticket was ound which related to a valise left at Dover This value contained sham bonds, with which it was supposed it was intended to replace any genuine ones which might be stolen on the voyage. The Victoria Station ticket had in the meantime been found to refer to a hat box containing sixty-two of the coupons be-longing to a part of one of the stolen parcels of bonds, while a search of the cloak room at the Cannon Street Station, London, resulted in the finding of a Gladstone bag in which were several of the bonds. Last July Mr. Sears, a gentleman of inde-cendent means, received a letter from Peach, o whom he had lent £100, in which he asked him to advance to a friend of his—a Mr. Mei-ville—the sum of £1,000 upon a quantity of Turkish priority 5-per-cent bonds. Mr. Sears did advance the sum of £890 and placed bonds which he received in return from Peach with his bankers. Meanwhile these bonds were stopped, and on Aug. 25 Peach wrote a letter to Mr. Sears saying the loan would be repaid in the following January, and, he added, he arranged, with Mr. Mei-ville that the coupons due in September should not be disturbed. Other inquiries made by inspector Abbeline brought to light the fact that the real name of melville was selyn and that he and Peach had been living together at Eastbourne and that they had residences near one another at Ricumbond. When Peach was first before the magistrate his counsel applied for ball, and him to advance to a friend of his-a Mr. Meilicumond. When Peach was first before the magistrate his counsel applied for ball, and to demonstrate the bona nues of his client in the matter, undertook to restore the remainder of the bonds. This was agreed to, and Peach's wife took a detective into an attic and disclosed a hole in the flooring in which were all but three of the bonds he was in search of, together with a quantity of correspondence between Peach and Melville. Meantime, Melville, whose real name proved to be selyn, evaded arrest for some time and wrote impudent letters to the authorities, jeering them about the criminal proceedings. He was at length arrested in a thorities, jeering them about the criminal proceedings. He was at length arrested in a house in Harewood Square, where he had been stopping under the name of F. Daibein, Esq. The prisoner was reductant to give his name, which proved to be waiter selyn. He also proved to be a criminal who has undergone sentences of imprisonment and ponal servitude for forgery, swindling, etc., and who was probably not unknown to America, as there are papers in his possession when he was arrested relating to California. Solyn used to disguise himself for his criminal operations by blackening his mustache, which is naturally light. The whole amount of bonds stolen by the gang of which Peach and Selyn appear to have been leaders, was about £30,000. A large quantity of the stolen bonds was recovered in Vienna. The actual robberies appear to have been impossible to trace to the prisoners, and they were therefore prosecuted for conspiracy to defrant. Selyn, in view of previous convictions, was sentenced to five years' penal servitude, and Beach to fourteen months at hard lapor.

CHARMING TO MEN.

A Pen-and-Ink Sketch of Mrs. Montague

Convicted of Manslaughter. LONDON, April 11.-Women all over Engand have shown quite as keen an interest in the trial of Mrs. Montague for punishing her baby to death as they did in the Os case. Mrs. Montague is described by those who know her as charming rather to men than to women. She is a horsey woman, and rejoices in her dogs. In her Irish home when entertaining, ladies usually looked when entertaining, ladies usually looked after themselves while she was the center of the men's circle. She is extremely good looking and has most pleasant manners. Severe reflections are passed upon her husband for his toleration of excessive punishment of the children. It is easy to conceive such criticisms as a matter of fact. Capt. Montague's noted for his doleration bear him. He will neglect any guests to play with the family. It is natural that the children should look to him to give them some compensation for the harshness of a mother more puritableal in her notions of discipline than even severe Covenanters. Meanwhile it was admitted in Parliament this week that Mrs. Montague's troubles may not be over when her year's imprisonment is up. The Treasury officials have a right to prosecute her if they choose on the indictments which the Irish judge quashed. One of Mrs. Montague's sisters has for several years been well known in London, having married in the first instance the late Richard Lemman. Her son by this union is the heir presumptive to the Barony of Denman.

St. Louis Must Be Its Own

Merchants Will Bring the Railroads Across the River.

THE EAST ST. LOUIS TERMINI MUST BE ABANDONED.

A Concerted Movement of Great Import ance to the Welfare of the City-Ship pers Will Favor the Roads With St. Louis Termini-St. Louis Shippers De mand Justice-A Call That Cannot Be cided stand in reference to railway terminals of eastern roads. It has been determined that hereafter the roads which will receive the greatest patronage from the merchants of this city, are those which establish their has been a great deal of feel-ing on this subject for same time and to-day the agitation took definite form in the shape of a paper which has already been numerously signed, in which the signers pledge themselves to discriminate as far as they can in favor of the roads which locate their receiving and shipping depots on vement of the Eastern railway lines that have hitherto had their termini in East St. Louis to this side of the river has lately been most marked. The first to transfer its terminus and warehouses to the St. was the Chicago, Burling-& Quincy. This was followed by the Jacksonville & Southeastern. Next me the Vandalia, and next the Clover Leaf, while the Louisville & Nashville will transfer its headquarters to St. Louis as soon as its freight house is completed. These transfers have but eight lines terminating on the east the river, and the prospects are that all of them will soon transfer their termin to the west shore of the Mississippi.

This move is attributed to two causes; firstly, the construction of the Merchants' bridge, and secondly and mainly, the pressure brought to bear by the shippers of St. Louis upon the railroads. The inconveniences of having the railway termini outside of the city have for years been most seriously felt, and have been of great detriment to the interests of the city. No relief was possible, however, as long as there was but one bridge. Shortly after the construction of the Merchants' Bridge appeals were made to the railroads to transfer their termini, but without success. It was not until early in the present year that it was determined by shippers of this city to form a com bination that would compel their wishes to be respected. At first the combination was informal, but it proved to be sufficiently strong to bring the lines already named to the city. When this movement was perceived a strong opposition developed, which was ascribed to the old bridge and the trans fer companies. The shippers thereupon de-termined to take more decided steps, and a paper was prepared to be circulated among the merchants for signature. TO STAND TOGETHER.

The paper is as follows:

The merchants, manufacturers, and shippers of our city have heretofore made frequent requests on the management of the several railways reaching the Eastern scabbard to accord to St. Louis that traffic recognition that her commerce warrants. This has been as often denied. The reason assigned was that the railways interested terminated on the east side of the river and there was no available ground in St. Louis for terminals.

The merchants and capitalists of this city, by conround in St. Louis for terminals.

The merchauts and capitalists of this city, by constructing the Merchants Bridge terminals, have evercome that obstacle, and have rendered it possible for all railways to acquire terminals in St. Louis. The Pennsylvania, Louisville & Nashville, Jacksonville & Southeastern and C. B. & Q. railways have availed themselves of this opportunity, and it is inderstood that the L. & N. J. & S. E. and C., B. & Q. will have their warehouses now under construction, complated in the hemoderstood that the L. & N., J. & S. E. and C., B. & Q. will have their warehouses now under construction, completed in the near future.

We are also informed that the Pennsylvania warehouses on Main street will be occupied by the Vandalia line, Pennsylvania lines, Star Union and Erie Dispatch. For several months bast the Lackawanna line has been loading cars in the East and making line has been loading cars in the East and making see in St. Louis of the Merchantz Torminal warehouse, Main and Biddle streets, in a very satisfactory

In order that the managers of fast freight lines and officials of railways may understand that the "oid way" of treating the commerce of our city is not satisfactory and will not be continued with our consent, we shall feel it our duty to give our freight to such railways as show their appreciation of the weifare of and faith in the commerce of our city by establishing their warehouses and yards in the city of St. Louis, which it is now possible for all railroads 50 do.

tablishing their warehouses and yards in the city of 8t. Louis, which it is now possible for all railroads to do.

This paper has not long been in circulation, but already more than 150 signatures have been obtained, including most, if not all, of the heavy shippers of St. Louis, and names are being constantly added. It has been indorsed by the Fall Festivities Association, and the prime movers are, as a matter of course, strongly supported by those interested in the Merchants' Bridge. The matter was kept quiet for some time, until the movement had attained formidable strength. Those interested declare that the removal of all the eastbound lines to this side of the river will soon be an accomplished fact. The old bridge company has taken the alarm, and to-day there were consultations among those interested as to what steps to take to prevent the transfer. The Transfer company is almost equally interested, and its representatives were in conference with those of the Eads Bridge. What the result was could not be learned, but it was asserted by the movers in the project for making St. Louis its own terminaus that nothing that they could do was to be feared. A prediction frequently made was that a very great reduction of the bridge arbitrary within the near future was an assured fact. This movement is looked upon by shippers and merchants in general as one of the most important that has taken place in many years, and one that will go far to put a stop to further discrimination against St. Louis in the future.

She was feeling in her usual good spirits, however, feeling in her usual good spirits, however, when she received the interviewer.

For the information of the general public, which only sees Miss Russell behind the footights, it can be said that she is as handsome in her every day clothes as she is her costumes, and that her complexion hair, and other charms are entirely her own.

Before Miss Russell came from her private room into the parlor of her suit the reporter was introduced to a small white and black dog with a pug-looking face, named Koko. The dog has a very pleasant, friendly disposition, but has already caused his mistress no little worry and troubles, as notice was sent up this morning by the fint hearted Manager that the dog would not be permitted in the rooms, and that there was a place for him in the cellar.

The first thing Miss Russell spoke of was the dog.

'How is my play succeeding? Splendidly, We have had a regular ovation everywhere, and in Chicago we had a lovely time. Oh, but I forgot. I must not say things about Chicago here, must I; but I came from there originally. There is one great difficulty we have to contend with in the opera we have now. It is an opera comique and on first nights people expect to see a sort of "Wang" or "Tar and Tartar," when it isn't. There is not a bit of horse play in it, except, perhaps, what the donkey does, and after the middle of the second act there is no comedy except one little touch. It is so hard to get people to realize the difference, but we are succeeding well, We have a beautiful story with beautiful music and a thorough classical opera comique, not a comic opera with variety specialities in it."

Roberts, who is a notary, and attorney, claimed the work was worth $100, and acknowledged the receipt of $10. M. W. Huff represented Roberts, and B. F. Kribben appeared for Mr. Joy. Both Roberts and Mr. Joy told their stories on the witness stand. Roberts claimed extra compensation in consequence of the trouble he had in securing the signatures of the Central Committee of the Union Labor party at night in North St. Louis. He was in a cab and it was a o'clock in the morning when he took the train for Jefferson City. Mr. Joy, Roberts stated, he gave him a check for $100 to pay to the Union Labor men when he had secured all the indorsements. Mr. Joy admitted having employed Roberts to take the acknowledgements of the Union Labor men. He stated the check he gave Roberts was made payable to the chairman of the committee. Judge Klein decided the case by giving a judgment against Mr. Joy for $30, which amount Mr. Joy had admitted to be willing to pay, and ordered the costs in the case taxed against Roberts.

Suits Filed Today. Elizabeth Crocker began a suit for divorce to-day against Charles A. Crocker, charging drunkenness, failure to properly support her and striking her. The couple were married at Centralia. Ill., Sept. 19, 1885, and lived together until Nov. 14, 1891. There are two children whose custody she asks.

George Burke, a minor, by his next friend, William H. Burke, began a suit to day against the Northern Centrul Railway Co. for $10,000 damages. It is alleged iffat George Burke was run over by a car belonging to defendant at Eighth and Wash streets, March 17, 1892, ane his ankle mangled.

James W. Tufts began an attachment suit to day against Max Volkening for $610.

Another of the cases growing out of the boiler explosion at the Laclede Fire Brick Manufacturing Co.'s place at Cheltenham was settled in the Circuit Court to day. The suit was brought by Maggie Hussey, wife of Lawrence Hussey, one of the men killed, and was for $5,000. It was filed this morning and dismissed later in the day. THE PREESE CASE.

Progress of the Trouble Between the Constable and Justice Pollard. All was quiet this morning at Vandeventer avenue and Old Manchester road, where for some days last week Justice Pollard has been holding court fanked on either side by a po-liceman to protect him from the assaults of Constable Freese, The serenity this forenoon was due to the absence of both the Justice and Constable. Up to 10:30 Judge Pol-

Constable Freese. The serenity this forenoon was due to the absence of both the Justice and Constable. Up to 10:30 Judge Pollargh had not appeared, and Freese, who was on the ground earlier, had gone down town, it is supposed, on business connected with the threatened attempt to remove him for malfeasance in office. The Justice and the Constable each charge the other with neglect of duty and not going to the office.

The story of Constable Freese's alleged malfeasance in office was told in yesterday's Post-Disparch. He is charged with having made a levy under color of attachment papers in the suit of J. A. Buechler vs. Burt Lee and wife, C. W. Ellis and Mrs. Sallie Ellis, purporting to have been issued by Justice
Jeff M. Pollard, when in fact,
Judge Pollard
had never issued such papers.

This alleged illegal levy is claimed to have been made with unnecessary violence. Carpets were ripped up, and furniture was knocked about, so it is alleged, and it is said that the officer even took airs. Ellis' hat. It is claimed further that no return was ever made in court to the levy.

To the reporter Judge Pollard said; "I had nothing to do with those Buechler attachment papers, and have no responsibility for whatever Freese may do outside. I merely declined to be used by him to legalize an illegal levy, Freese demanded that I sign the Buechler papers, and did so violently and threateningly. The next day I was sick and did not go down to my office, and for a day or two thereafter I staid away, hearing that he was drunk and cavorting around there, and had one or two chums of like sort to do me up. Then I applied for police protection, and it was granted me,"

"So far as I know he has never served the papers in that Edwards attachment, and i am going to make a demand on him to surrender the papers."

Judge Pollard said he knew nothing why the Edwards hed one or two chums of like sort to defend Dr. Lee in the attachment suit of M.
J. Edwards levy never had been made.

The Lindell Railway Co. Lay Tracks Across Newstead Avenue Yesterday. Church goers wending their way to worship over Newstead avenue, between Bell ship over Newstead avenue, between Bell and Fairiax avenues were surprised to see the sanctity of the Sabbath broken yesterday morning by a gang of workmen tearing up the streets in the vicinity. The men were in the employ of the Lindell Railway, and were preparing to lay tracks across Newstead from Finney avenue. Police Sergeant Sommers, when he found the men had no special permit, sent word to Strete Commissioner Murphy notifying him of it and asking if he wanted the work stopped. Mr. Murphy had been informed at 70 clock yesterday morning by the company that the tracks were intended to connect their main road with their car stables, and were being laid under permission granted in their general ordinance.

Mr. Capen, when called up by the Street Department this morning, said said the company had becught 500 feet of ground on Fairfax avenue with a depth of 130 feet running toward Bell, and they intended erecting a car-shed on it. The building will be a complete structure erected by the Eastman Bridge Co. Mr. Capen stated that the company were building the tracks across Newstead avenue to connect their main line on Finney avenue with the car sheds. Why the company were acting with such unseemly haste or laying the tracks before the sheds were erected he failed to state. He denied that the company was laying tracks up the alley between Bell and Fairfax avenues.

Mr. Murphy said that street car companies had the right to run connections between their linos and the car sheds over any and all streets. Fairtax avenues were surprised to

The Two Republican Chairmen Reach No Agreement.

CHAUNCEY L. FILLEY QUESTIONED BY THE SILES' LEADER.

Recorder Carlisle Is told by Counselor Marshall That the State Committee Is Supremej-Caucusing in the Mayor's House-A Report Hurtful to John B. O'Meara.

At 8 o'clock this afternoon Chairman John McFall of the Hoodlum Republican Commit-tee, and A. J. Davis, Chairman of the Silk Stockings, were arguing the question of a joint call for primaries, with the prospect of an agreement as far off as ever.

Secretary E. G. Schoenhardt, the Secretary of the Hoodlum Committee, saw Chairman Davis this morning, and at 1 o'clock reported to Chairman McFall that Chairman Davis was not willing to leave the congressional primaries out of the call. This put the whole quarrel back to the point of beginning. After a long talk with Chairman McFall, Secretary Schoenhardt went back to Chairman Davis to arrange a meeting between the two chairmen. This is being held Chairman McFall said when he heard the Secretary's first report this morning: "I'm willing to waive the matter of regularity, and I don't care what Mr. Carlisle puts on the tickets as a heading, if we can get the Congressional primaries left out of the call. But I shan't give in to those fellows. If they refuse to give in the case to day, back goes the matter to the State Committee, and they can issue the

between the two committees.

QUESTIONING MR. FILLEY.
Chairman Davis to-day, after seeing Secretary Schoenhardt, sent the following to Mr.

Hon. Chauncey I. Filley, Chairman State Central

Hon. Chauncey I. Filley, Chairman State Central Committee:

SIR—In compliance with the request of the State Central Committee, to the effect that two bodies, each claiming to be the Republican City Central Committee of St. Louis, should issue a joint call for a primary election for the choice of delegates to the fact that the convention of the control of the state Convention of the state Convention of the state of the state Convention of the signatures of John McFall and myself, Chairmen, respectively. I, together with Andrew McGrew, signed the same, and thereupon took the said call to Col. McFall for his signature as contemplated by said request of the State Central Committee. The date fixed was April 29, which, however, I was willing to change to the 21st or 22d, if desired. Col. McFall refused to sign the same, and I thereupon longed said notification and call with the Recorder of Voters.

The committee of which I am the Chairman has performed all that was required to be done by the State Committee, and the call signed by me is in the hands of the Becorder of Voters, and can be signed by Col McFall if he is disposed to comply with the request of the State Committee and his own agreements made in relation to the subject. Yours respectfully, St. Louis, April 11, 1892.

Caucus at the Mayor's House.

An air of suppressed excitement hung over the vicinity of Fourteenth and Madison streets last evening. There was another caucus at the Mayor's mansion. Passers by stopped and wondered at the brilliant light pouring from the windows and the long line of carriages in front of the door. Curious faces peered from behind the half open blinds of a house across the way. They had read of last week's famous caucus and thought that perhaps Jim Cremin and Col. Jones were again weighing the destiny of various candidates for official positions. John 'Burke, the Boiler Inspector, and Jim Dutton of the Street Department were the only members of the mystic circle who were recognized, however, but they both took occasion this morning to emphatically deny that they had been near the Mayor's ouring from the windows and the long line

It was said this morning that the meaning of last night's meeting was to define the attitude of ''de push'' in their selection of delegates to the National Convention. A prominent politician said this morning: ''That meeting last evening means that the ''push'' are going to try to make up for last Tuesday's dumping by tying up with the winning candidate in the Gubernatorial winning candidate in the Gubernatorial race. That means to roll O'Meara and try to work the primaries in their own interest by coming out for Dalton. He can't get an alliance with "Doughty Dick" and his opponents wont give him the satisfaction of alliance with Loughly being on the winning opponents wont give him the satisfaction of claiming anything by being on the winning side. "You wont find him at his office this morning," added the gentleman. "He's out canvassing and laying his lines to capture these primaries," and sure enough he has not been down since last, Monday, and there was a large number of people wishing to transact business with him. He had not arrived up to a late hour this afternoon.

Gone Over to Dalton

It is stated to-day that the word has gone out from the Mayor's office to drop W. J. Stone and support the Dalton delegates at the primaries. This would mean the ruin of ant-Governor. Dalton has been making an active anti-raliroad campaign, and as Ed Kenna, the raliroad attorney, has been hand-in-glove with the Mayor in his campaign, the politicians who are not on the inside are much puzzled by the new move. They say it means either that Dalton has made friends with the raliroad interests of that the Mayor has broken away from them.

Republican Central Committees both held meetings at Clayton to-day and arranged for primaries at which delegates are to be elected to county conventions in which delegates to each of the respective State conventions are

A ROOSTER THAT LAYS EGGS.

Pennsylvanians Are Excited Over the Versatility of a Peculiar Fowl, LANCASTER, Pa., April 11.—E. E. Eshleman, a well-known and reputable miller of West Lampeter Township, is the owner of a veritable egg-laying rooster. The strange fowl has attracted a great deal of attention and has been the subject of repeated investigations, all resulting in the conclusion that it is tions, all resulting in the conclusion that it is without doubt a rooster and with equal certainty a layer of eggs as well.

In breed it is a cross between a white leghorn and white Plymouth Rock. It has big spurs, yellow legs, long tail feathers and large red comb and wattles, and in every respect has the appearance of a prime, well-conditioned rooster. In the farm yard it crows lustily at frequent intervals, scratches the ground for the particular cluster of, hens that follow it, chuckles like other roosters when it wishes to call its harem together over a new-found seed or worm, fights off other roosters which essay to come too near, and in general conducts itself while in the yard precisely as other male chickens do. Since March 6, however, it has abown its versatility in another direction by actually laying thirty nine perfect eggs. From March 8 to 18 it laid two eggs each day.

Learning of this remarkable fowl, Dr. J. H. Musser, a neighbor of Miller Eshleman's related its exploits to the members of the Lancaster County Medical Society, Saturday night. Two weeks ago the fowl was penned up alone and closely watched. During its confinement it has laid, by actual count, exactly twenty-seven eggs, nine of them in three days and the remainder, eleven, in eleven days. It does not cackle when it lays, nor does it manifest any disposition to hatch or show any particular preference for laying on a nest, apparently being suited equally well with the bare ground or floor of the county of the cou without doubt a rooster and with equal cer-

MYSTERIOUS SHOOTING AT A DANCE.

Ball at Druids' Hall Brought to a Sud There was considerable flurry and excite ment during the dance at Druids' Hall or Ninth and Market streets last night. A pistol shot was fired by somebody at somebody else

The police were not on hand at the time of The police were not on hand at the time of the occurrence, which is reported to have been between 10:30 and 11 o'clock at night.

One of those who was at the dance, but who does not want the fact known, said that a barkeeper had shot at the private watchman named Alexander and that the bullet hit the house and glancing off wounded slightly an onlooker who had no part in the affair. He says also that the shooting started something of a panic among the women in the hall and a rush was made for the stairs and several women fainted. These were resuscitated by being laid on beer tables in the down stairs saloon and the usual remedies applied. Around the neighborhood various stories of the shooting were told and it was generally known that the shooting had occurred, but as to particulars they knew none or would not tell. The barkeepers in the Druid Hall saloons told conficting stories' about it, and then denied that any trouble had occurred it all.

then denied that any trouble had occurred it all.

The police heard of the row about 12 o'clock and immediately went to work trying to learn something, but failed utterly. The private watchman refused to tell what he knew and insisted that nothing had happened. He could not be found this morning. After working all night and part of this morning on the case the police abandoned it as a hopeless job. Another young man who was at the dance and who works in a downtown store was seen and said:

"I went there with a party of friends last night and I heard during the evening that a shooting had occurred down stairs, and some excitement was raised by the report. I did not notice any general panic, but there was a scramble over toward the door. I was surprised to see so many young girls there, some of them not more than 15, dancing with everybody and drinking all the beer they wanted."

Manager Frankel, brother of Prof. Frankel, who conducts a dancing school in the building, said to-day that no trouble whatever had occurred and that the story was started by malicious persons who wanted to injure their business.

Bruce Shultz's Death Not Due to the Whipping He Received. April 1. Young Shultz was taken sick with stomach troubles the same or the next. day, and died Saturday morning.

Mr. Collins.said: "There is no connection whatever between the chastisement which I gave Bruce Schultz and his subsequent death. I took his left arm in my left hand, and with the rattan in my right hand I struck him four blows on the hip. I did not strike him in the stomach. I whipped him about the middle of the morning session and then conducted him back to his class room, where he remained until noon. The boy's offense was disorderly conduct and insolence to his teacher. He rolled a ball across the floor of the room in the midst of class, and the teacher ordered him to report to me. The teacher states that he remarked in passing her desk, 'She is too officious.' The teacher took that to refer to her. Schultz claimed that he meant a girl in the room.

"I spoke to Dr. Moore, the physician who attended the boy, and he said that there was no connection between the illness of Schultz and the whipping."

Mr. A. J. Schultz, father of the boy, stated that he did not believe that his son deserved a whipping. He said that the boy's leg was marked with black and blue welts. He also stated that his son said that he received one blow in the stomach in attempting to dodge the strokes of the rattan. But Mr. Schultz did not believe that his son's death was due to the punishment given to him. At the Coroner's office they stated that they would not take any action in the case.

Course of Trading On the New York Stock

NEW YORK, April 9, 1892 .- The course of affairs at the Stock Exchange, for the next few months is likely to depend principally on the following factors: (1) The prospects of the crops; (2) The course of the money market; (3) The course of the foreign exchanges; (4) The action of our own and of foreign governments in respect to the restoration of silver;

(6) The movement of our securities held in foreign countries; and (6) The condition of domestic trade.

As to the first of these conditions, all is yet in the future. All that can now be said is that without more grain has withstood successfully the adverse incidents of weather and storm, and that the spring opens with good prosthe adverse incidents of weather and storm, and that the spring opens with good prospects for that part of the wheat crop. For the rest, all must depend upon the uncertainties of the weather for the next three or four months. It is to be remembered, however, that the large stocks of agricultural products still on hand from fast year's crops amount, for all practical purposes, to the same thing as an assurance of a liberal harvest; for the slackening of the European demand for our graif and its falling price show that the wants of that part of the world have been largely satisfied; and we shall therefore enter the next crop year with a surplus so enter the next crop year with a surplus so large that, even should our crops prove light large that, even should our crops prove light, we shall have about an average supply available for export. This is an assurance of no small value to the country at large and especially to the rallroad interest.

In respect to the loan market, scarcely a doubt is entertained in any quarter as to the continuance of the prevailing ease throughout the summer. The low prices of a wide range of products diminishes the amount of money required for handling them, while the issue of $4,500,000 of new money each month and the unusually high range of the reserves of the banks forshadow easy rates all over the country.

Senator McMillan Points Out a Weak Spot.

NEW YORK, April 11.—Senator Jas. McMillar of Michigan was at the Holland House yesterday. He said he had come from Washingto on private matter and would remain only a day or two. Senator McMillan said he deeply interested in the question of placing war vessels on the great lakes as a protect to their commerce against possible invasion. A resolution calling for information as to treaty rights on this subject, which he had introduced in the Senate two days ago, he proposed to call up at an early date, and whatever he could do in the way of arousing the Senate to the needs in this direction he would do.

"Under the treaty of 1819," the Senator said, "it is held that only one armed vessel may be kept upon the great lakes. This is not enough. The conditions are entirely changed since that treaty went into effect, and what was just any adequate then is by and what was just and adequate then is by no means adequate now. There were then very slight interests to protect, and the temptation to invasion of these waters in case of trouble between this nation and Great Britain was not compared with the present. If there was war now the British vessels could pass through the Welland canal and reach the great cities on Lakes Erie, Ontario and Michigan, and we would be powerless to stop them. The treaty of 1819 has been abrogated once, by Secretary Seward, but it seems to be considered in effect again with all its original provisions. The resolution introduced asks for information from the State Department as to whether all the proand what was just and adequate then is by State Department as to whether all the pro-visions of that treaty are in effect precisely as they were when the treaty was ratified." "How large affect would be adequate to protect the lakes?" Senator McMillan was "There should be four first-class gun-boats," he answered.

August Futz took the chair and W. F. Bohn acted as secretary. Sixty-four out of the seventy-four local ledges were represented. Grand Marshal Stephen Dellacella reported that there would be fully 70,000 members of the order in attendance. The parade would take place on Thursday, May 12, the uniformed lodges marching by fours to the Fair Grounds and being reviewed by night. Isaac M. Mason, President of the Merchants' Exchange, was appointed chief of staff. The Franklin Brenne improvement Association contributed the sum of $500, and agreed to erect four arches over that thoroughfare. A report from the Wabash Railroad, East and West, was received, agreeing to sell tickets at the rate of one fare for the round trip. It was agreed that a sham battle should take place on the river on Wednesday evening, May 11, that the parade and prize drill at the Fair Grounds should be held on May 12, and that on May 13, there should be a grand river excursion. A resolution was passed directing the Secretary to write to the Secretary of the Navy, asking him to order the White Squadron, which will be at Memphis during the first week in May, to report in St. Louis on May 11. After transacting routine business, the meeting adjourned.

Can the Women Vote?

MASCOUTAH, Ill., April 11.-The approaching chool elections are attracting an unusua amount of attention at this time in this section of the State. It will be the first time that women have been allowed to vote, if indeed they be allowed to vote this time. The women in this and neighboring cities appear to be determined to vote, while the ungallan to be determined to vote, while the ungailant election judges in some districts declare that they have no legal right to vote. In the college town of Lebanon ninety-nine women have signed an agreement to vote at the coming school election judges or no judges. A careful reading of the law, however, reveals the fact that the bill passed at the session of the State Legislature upon which the women base their claim of having the right to vote, grants the privilege to very few women. It is claimed by many that the Legislators, true to the weakness of ordinary man, deliberately worked a gigantic scheme of deception upon the women and had no intention of securing to them the boon which they worked industriously to secure. Under the law there is not one woman in fifty that has the legal right to vote. The bill passed by the State Legislature reads as follows:

Sec. 1. Be it enacted by the people of the State of Illinois represented in the General Assembly that any woman of the age of 21 years and upwards belonging to either of the classes mentioned in art. 7 of the constitution of the State of Illinois who have resided in this State one year, in the county minety days, and in the election district thirty days next preceding any school election shall be entitled to vote at such election.

The constitutional art. 8, refered to in the bill, reads as follows: uil, reads as follows:
Suffrage Sec. 1. Every person having rasided it this State one year, in the county ninety days, and in the election district thirty days next preceding any election therein. When the state of the state o The legal right to vote under the new law is therefore granted only to those women who were naturalized and were 21 years of age prior to Jan. 1, 1879.

SOMETHING IN THE SLOT.

It is always amusing to watch a personal organ wiring in and wiring out as the boss in control of the party machine drops something in the slot for the editor.

Three years ago, when ALLEN, as acting Mayor, was a candidate for the office and bossed a Democractic City Central Comwas apparently enough in the slot to make the Republic joyfully confident of the result of primary votes counted under the tee, and it was amazed and enraged at the presumption of Judge NOONAN in daring to run as a candidate for Mayor against the boss of the machine.

After Noonan's election the Republic was for a long time exceedingly distrustful of officeholders in party committees and of the result of primaries held under the auspices of such a committee.

But when Mayor NOONAN had openly broken all his campaign pledges; openly repudiated his anti-boss, anti-machine platform; thrown himself into the arms of the very boodlers who had opposed him; used his patronage to convert Democratic committees into "push" machines and Democratic primaries into worse frauds than they ever were before-why, then, a delegateship dropped into the slot for the editor caused the Republic to fall madly in love with the "push" machine and its methods, to fall out with the new primary law, and to manifest daily its great fear that Recorder CARLISLE will falsify the returns and count in or count out anybody he pleases.

With the press and candidates on all sides suspiciously watching and ready to proceed against him, a public not disappointed at the working of the slot arrangement will discredit all such insinuations against the responsible official who is sworn to administer the new primary law, until some crookedness appears in his administration of it. It will be time enough to impeach him when he shall have merited some little of the imputation which the Republic formerly heaped upon NOONAN and his supporters and their manipulation of election appliances.

WHAT can be done under unrestricted rade conditions has been demonstrated by the record of flour trade of the United States with Cubs since the removal of the tariff. The imports of American flour into Cuba have increased from 5.753 sacks for the first two months of last year to 83,643 sacks for the same period this year, while the imports from Europe have diminished from 56,255 sacks to 160 sacks. St. Louis has been largely benefited by this increase, and when the Mississippi has been properly improved and means of direct water communication with West Indian and South American ports secured a boundless field for the growth of St. Louis trade will be opened.

ACTING SECRETARY WHARTON is careful to explain that Mr. BLAIR's resignation of the Chinese mission terminates the incident and his letter is written only to define the position of the United States Government. Wm. G. Sparks' Strange and Interesting Story of the Unknown Child.

NO DOUBT THAT HE WAS ABDUCTED FROM WEALTHY PARENTS.

The False Statements Made by the Man Who Brought Him to Benton and How He Disappeared When He Feared Detection-He Said That "Jim" Was Heir to a Big Legacy-The Boy's Own Efforts to Discover His Identity.

BLODGETT, Mo., April 11.—Mr. Wm. G. Sparks, who raised and educated James Willett, the young man supposed by many peo-ple in this section to be the long-lost Charley Ross, was seen to-day by the Post-Dispatch

With the greatest care and deliberation and assisted by his wife's recollections also, Mr. Sparks told the life-story of the strange waif left with him eighteen years avo. about the secret of whose identity there are gathered so many facts startlingly like the story of the abduction of Charley Ross as to lead to the well-grounded belief that James Willett may yet be proved to be that long-lost hero of the world's greatest abduction mystery. Mr. Sparks' story is naturally much more omplete as to details than the story of James Villett himself, which was wired in full to whilett himself, which was wired in full to the Sunday Post-Disparch. This is so be-cause in young Willett's case the story is sim-ply that of the recollections of a little child of 5 years of age told after the child had grown to be a man of 23, while Mr. Sparks' story is that of one who was fully fitted to understand and appreciate, at the time the strange mystery surrounding the time, the strange mystery surrounding the boy's life, and to remember vividly his lealings with the only character known in theistory who presumably held the key to that told to the Post-Disparch correspondent to-day brings into especial prominence one peculiarly significant line of circumstantial evidence now made public for the first time in the narration of the strange story of James

The fact is established that whether or not James Willett be Charley Ross, there is no doubt, on the admission of the very man who abandoned him eighteen years ago in the wilds of Southeast Missouri, that he was stolen from wealthy parents, and that at one time after his aba ndonment there was a sudden opportunity for the securing of a presumably large sum of money by his return to those from whom he had been stolen.

tell a distorted story, which upon careful investigation made years afterward, served only to deepen the mystery already surrounding the strange case.

It proved, so far as the names of people and places given by the mysterious man were concerned, to have been a cunning fabrication which offered no clew to the actual discovery of the identity of James Willett.

But it proved also that there was a secret in the life story of James Willett, which at one moment during the latter's boyhood made his restoration to his parents a matter in which the securing of a heavy reward of some nature was involved, and which caused the only man who knew the secret to insist gratuitously and in contradiction to his own former statements, that the abandoned waif was the child of wealthy parents.

If James Willett is not Charley Ross the facts in the story about him now indicate that a marvelous parallel of the Charley Ross case has had its central figure in the unknown boy who has grown up to man's estate in Scott County, Mo., with the mystery of his life left comparatively uninvestigated. Mr. Wm. G. Sparks' story is in consequence a deeply interesting one.

"One raluy afternoon in October, 1874," said Mr. Sparks," the man giving his neare

"One rainy afternoon in October, 1874," said Mr. Sparks," the man giving his name as Willett, and having with him a little boy apparently about 5 years old, first appeared in Benton. He came from Commerce

The man asked me to take the little boy and keep him until he, the supposed father, could find work in the neighborhood and get enough money to aga in take charge of the boy. He said I would not have to keep the child longer than a few weeks, and I consented. The man himself then secured work with a Mr. McCormack, but after working two weeks he suddenly disappeared. It was five years from that time until I heard from or saw him again.

"You have already been given the description of the man and the little boy as they appeared eighteen years ago, and told of how I came to get the latter's story of being stolen from home. I would say that I have never seen a prettier, brighter boy than Jim was then, and that his quick ways were those of a city boy, not of a country child. I sent him to school and he developed a great faculty for study, especially when it came to figures, for which he had a decided talent. Jim, and that letter was a strange one. It was from Willett, and it told the boy that there was a legacy awaiting him at Morgansheld, Union County, Ky., a legacy from his parents, and that he (Willett) could secure it for Jim if the latter would rejoin him shortly after that at Commerce, No. Willett stated in the letter that Jim's parents were both dead, thus giving his own previous story tha lle. "Of course I read this letter to Jim, and I wrote to Willett telling him he could not have the boy unless he paid what was due me for board, and asking him also how he had come to have charge of Jim five years before and to be wandering about the country with him if the boy's parents were then living. I received no answer to this letter, and then I wrote to Morganneld, Ky., and also failed to receive an answer from there. Soon afterward I had occasion to go to Commerce, and to my great surprise I suddenly encountered the man, Willett, there. He was startled by the meeting, and we had some angry words, as I at once tackled him about Jim. Finally he promised me that he would come the next week to Benton, pay what he owed for Jim's board, and explain everything about the boy. I had my suspicion that the man was contemplating trickery, and I told him that if he tried to steal Jim I would kill him. That night the fellow fied, leaving account for every member of their family. So Jim came back to Benton no wiser than he

Jim came back to Benton no wiser than he had left.

"For years the theory had been advanced that he was Charley Ross, and it was revived after this trip. I never took any interest in it because it seemed to me improbable. But there is a mystery in the boy's life and I would like to see it cleared up. His resemblance, as a boy, to the pictures of Charley Ross has been noticed and commented on by many people of Benton and Blodgett."

The pictures forwarded to the Post-Distract were furnished by Mr. Sparks. They are tin types of James Willett, taken, one in December, 1874, when he was about 5 years old, the other taken only a year ago, and the picture of Charley Ross, which appeared in Harper's Weekly shortly after the world-famous abduction of that boy.

About 8:30 o'clock this morning five hurried shots were heard fired in a little back room on the ground floor in the rear of the negro dwelling, No. 706 North Thirteenth street, accompanied by the shrieks of a woman and the cries of a man. When the room was entered by the other occupants of the tumble-down shanty Howard Echols, colored, was found lying dead at the foot of the bed, a pistol at his side, and Jennie Harris, a mulattress, on the floor at the side of the bed dying, with a revolver lying near her band. It contained the follow-ing scrawl in lead-pencil, and pointed to the fact that Echols had determined on the murder of Jennie Harris and then the taking of his own life: "'I will die with her. Fannie Moore, niece of the dying woman, told a story which shows the motive for the double tragedy.

"Howard Echols had been living with Jennie Harris, my aunt, for some months, past, until about a week ago," she said. "He was a waiter at the Hotel Pearl, Thirteenth and Pine streets, and Jennie Harris was employed at the disreputable house kept by Mirs. Reno at No. 1222 Obestnut street. They worked at night and used to come home together in the mornings about 80°clock. About ten days ago they quarreled and Jennie Harris ordered Echols away. He came back one night, went into her room, opened her trunk and cut up a lot of her clothing, also breaking some of the jurniture. Jennie Harris had him arrested charged with malicious destruction of property, and the case was to have come up in the Second District Police Court to-morrow. Echols secured a bondsman, and was released in the meanwhile. He came here every day to begien in to the with him again, but she steadily refused to do so. At last, one day last week, he said in my hearing:

"If you don't live with me, Jennie, I will kill you and then kill myself."

"He repeated this threat several times, and Jennie was greatly airaid of him, but she would not consent to live with him again. I do not think she carried a pistol. I never saw her with one, and I do not believe she

"He repeated this threat several times, find Jennie was greatly arraid of him, but sie would not consent to live with him again. I do not think she carried a pistol. I never saw her with one, and I do not believe she used one this morning. I think Echols had both these pistols, and that he first shot her and then himself. I suppose he must have either come home with her from work this morning or else have followed her and then a them are the save followed her and then quarreled with her in the room. That's all I know about the matter."

THEORIES OF THE TRAGEDT.

John Harris, colored, who gave the first alarm after the shooting, corroborated Fannie Moore's story as to the quarrel between Echols and Jennie Harris, and the former's threats of murder and suicide. He also believed that those threats had been literally carried out, and that Jennie Harris had been literally carried out, and that Jennie Harris had been literally carried out, and that Jennie Harris had been literally carried out, and that Jennie Harris had been literally carried out, and that Jennie Harris had been literally carried out, and the former's threats of murder and suicide. He also believed that those threats had been literally carried out, and the Jennie Harris had armed herself following Echols' threats to take ner life, and that when he fired on hey this morning she promptly returned the fire and a desperate duel at the foot of the bed followed. The nature and location of Echols' wounds and the fact that a pistol was found by the side of both figures in the bloody affair supports this boilef. Echols' pistol had three wounds to account for those builets. The pistol found by her side had two empty chambers and Echols had been shot twice. The woman, Jennie Harris, was originally from Memphis, Tenn., and was a comety mulattress, about 2 years old. Echols always claimed to be from Chicago, and was a good-locking mulatto and a fine dresser. At the DARLING MAMA—I suppose you wonder what is the matter with me that I have 't been out or written. Last well again, and have paid some on the carpets, and will say the balance this week. I will try and come out this week. I am all right's again, and an extend to look all right. I haven't bean from Cora for an awful long time. Write and tell me if you are all well, and if Cora if is well. I am still at 1403 Pine, and go out at sight and make money. Write me as seon as you can. With love to you and papa. JULIA.

The envelope bore a new 'c-cent stamp, and the letter had probably been given to Echols to mail. The paper on which the letter is written has a picture in one corner of a banjo with a marine view in the background.

The body of Echols is now at the Morgue, having been removed there shortly after the tragedy. He appears to have been a mulatto about 20 years old, had a cleanly shaven face, with a short black mustache and was in his shirt sleeves and without a hat when received at the Morgue. He had on a flashy plaid vest, blue pants and button shoes. There was a scratch on the right side of his neck and a hole that might have been made by a bullet or perhaps by the point of a knife or scissors. A clot of blood covered the place, and it was impossible to tell without a thorough examination what the nature or extent of the wound was. Death, however, was caused by another wound, a bullet hole in the left breast showing that the ball had entered the heart. The pistol must have been held close to the body when fired, as the vest and shirt were powder burned.

The woman, Jennie Harris, was sent to the City Hospital in a dying condition. A hasty examination of her injuries at the City Dispensary, to which she was first taken, showed that she had been shot three times. One ball had penetrated the skull near the head on the left side over the forehead, another the left arm and a third had passed under the sam from behind and penetrated to the cavity of the chest.

KINGFISHER, O. T., April 11.-United States darshal Grimes and special agents of the Interior Department are in close consultation with Gov. Seay, who arrived here last evening. The conference is in reference to the formal opening of the county seat and town sites in the new county. It is currently re-ported that the Governor, who is to open the town sites by proclamation, will issue a proclamation simultaneously with President Harrison's opening the Territory to settlers. Boomers are entering Oklahoma and Texas from all sides, securing positions of vantage along all the streams near the line of the new Territory and preparing to make the run in earnest.

The settlers on this Territory will have the advantage of comprehensive official maps and plats to guide them.

The cold, heavy winds, which prevailed all day, have caused considerable suffering among women and children camping in the less protected places along the streams, especially to the men in line before the United States Land Office, who have absolutely no protection from the cold and blinding sand-storms.

CONTEMPLATED IMPROVEMENTS.

Additions to Be Made to the Southern

The decision to build the new hotel has caused the managers of the Southern to determine upon some important additions.
Manager H. C. Lewis said this morning: of new buildings, but will spend a considerable amount of money on the hotel as it stands now. For one thing we will add stands now. For one thing we will add thirty-five bath-rooms, and all the bath-rooms now in the house will be wainscotted with marble. Very extensive recarpeting will be undertaken to the extent of at least 5,000 yards. The dining-rooms will be re-fitted and the china and silverware renewed. We intend to keep up with the procession.' Some of the contracts have been let and work will soon be commenced.

THEY MUST EXPLAIN

President Bartholdt Will Have the Elevator Contract Investigated.

THERE WILL BE A FAIR AND FULL IN-VESTIGATION OF THE AWARD.

The President of the Board Says the Boldness of Mr. Forman's Statement Astonished Him, and That There Must Now Be a Public Hearing of the Charges-Mr. Rutledge Talks.

"I will call upon every member of the Building Committee at the School Board neeting to morrow night for an explanation of their action in awarding the elevator contracts to the highest bidder."

Such was the reply made by Mr. Richard Barthold, President of the School Board, this morning when asked what action he would take to prove or disprove the story of an alleged boodle transaction in the Building Committee awards made public in the SUNDAY FOST-DISPATCH by Mr. George L. Farman, repre-senting the Standard Elevator Co.

Mr. Farman's statement in brief was to the effect that he had entered a bid for elevators to be put in the new Polytechnic building on Ninth and Locust streets, and when the bids were opened his proposal of $12,830 was found to be the lowest, but to his surprise the contract was awarded to the Hale company, whose bid of $17,875 was the highest. Being covinced, he said, that something was wrong he secured an inter-view with Mr. Cudmore, a member of the whose names are mentioned or binted at in this transaction, for an explanation. I am convinced they will explain the case to the satisfaction of all. A member of the Building Committee told me this morning that the leiting of the elevator contracts was an honest transaction, as he had looked into the matter himself with the intention of exposing any wrong doing if he found it. He told me the committee in adopting the Hale elevators had done the best they could for the board and the public. Before the contract was awarded, a member of the Building Committee discussing elevators with me, said he had looked into the matter and learned that in almost every case where a building was lighted and its elevators run by a plant in the building was generally unsatisfactory. Electricity, he said, was the coming power for elevators, and it was the most economical when the power could be purchased from a central station at such rates as are offered in this city. I was requested to attend the meeting of the Building Committee last Friday night, when these contracts were awarded, but business interfered. I am sorry now I did not go. I assure you that I, as President of the School Board, will not allow my name or my record as President of the School Board, will not allow my name or my record as President of the School Board, will not allow one member or set of members in the board. I propose to investigate this affair publicly, and give all interested an opportunity to explain and vindicate themselves, as I am sat lefted they will do."

DIRECTOR RULLEDGE'S STATEMENT.

Robert Rutledge of Rutledge & Kilpatrick, and give all interested an opportunity to explain and vindicate themselves, as I am satisfied they will do."

DIRECTOR RUTLEDGE'S STATEMENT.
Robert Rutledge of Rutledge & Kilpatrick, the real estate dealers, is a member of the Building Committee of the School Board and was one of the first to be appointed on the sub-committee to solve the elevator problem. He was seen this morning and asked what he knew of the alleged use of boodle in winning his committee over to the Hale elevator plans.

"I was appointed on the sub-committee to investigate elevators and plans but I refused to serve because I already have more than I can attend to. I suggested Mr. Bus, as he was more decidedly opposed to electric elevators than I was. He was very strong in his opposition, and I thought that if Mr. Bus could be convinced that electric elevators were preferable, or cheaper, or safer than steam or hydraulic elevators, the arguments used ought to convince me. When he made his report he was very enthusiastic in his recommendation of electric elevators and so was Dr. Wait, and the change of feeling shown by these gentlemen had more to do with my vote in favor of the electric elevator than anything else. Let me state most positively that I do not believe there was $1 used to influence any member of that committee in his vote on the elevator contract. I do not propose to play the part of a detective, but I am going to learn the truth of this whole matter and demand that it be investigated. As long as I am a member of the School Board I am going to protect my name from any stain which such transactions as this, if true, might make upon it."

FAKED CIRCULATIONS. Mr. E. L. Preetorious Exposes the Tricks

of Unsuccessful Newspapers. In response to invitations several news have contributed hints to advertisers in a New York journal of last week. Among the views printed are those of Mr. Edw. L. Pree torious of Die Westliche Post of this city containing the following statements:

whose bid of $17,875 was the highest. Being covinced, he said, that something was wrong he secured an interview with Mr. Cudmore, a member of the committee, and learned/from Mr. Cudmore himself, so he claimed, that $3,000 had been offered to the committee or some members of it.

Mr. Barthold said that he read the statement and was startled by the boldness of Mr. Farman's assertion.

WANT TO BE INVESTIGATED.

"In the face of all this I will say that the public can rest easy as to anything that occurs in the present board. By a large majority, the board is composed of men who will allow nothing wrong to pass it. I have confidence also in the majority of the Building Committee as it now stands and I shall call upon all the men whose names are mentioned or hinted at in this transaction, for an explanation. I am convinced they will explain the case to the satisfaction of all. A member of the sold just like all goods are, and unless that space is shown to be worth what is asked for it, it is neither desired nor desirable.

"Some newspaper managers claim that their exact circulation is a private matter and one which should not be exposed. And these very same people will not order a suit of clothes or buy anything upon the mere word of the seller. To any fair-minded person, buying space in a newspaper which cannot prove the circulation it claims, looks very much like buying 'a pig in a poke.

"We have a phase, however, which is apt to prove very deceptive to the unwary. The newspaper directories publish (alleged) circulations, which as a rule, are not worth the paper they are printed upon. The publisher merely makes a statement and it is printed as given. Surely this is no indication. Neither are post-office receipts. A publisher may send out thousands of copies that never have their wrappers broken, simply because the recipients are not subscribers and have no time to waste on this kind of matter.

"In these days of fast printing presses and cheap paper, it is a matter of very little consequence to run off a few thousand extra copies which are apportioned out to the various news agents with instructions to return unsold copies. There are some large dailes who daily have tons of this sort of stuff returned to them and who claim these copies, which are sent to the paper mill, as part and parcel of their circulation.

"To arrive at a solution of the difficulty I would advise advertisers to demand an examination, not of the circulation books for they can easily be 'doctored,' but of the cash book. This will show the cash receipts derived from carriers and agents and in this, as in everything else. 'money talks,' There are few if any, straightforward, reputable, successful newspapers who are not only willing but anxious at all times to submit this proof of the truth of their claims so far as circulation is concerned."

No Great Damage. Done by the Recent Cold Snap. Madison, Wis., April 11,-The weekly crop

bulletin of the Wisconsin weather service says: "Winter wheat and rye seem to have passed through the winter in much better shape than was expected. It was thought by many that frequent and freezing weather had broken off many of the tender roots, but nearly all reports show the crop in fair condition. The drought which prevailed during the fall seeding and which was viewed with much apprehension at the time, may have been a blessing instead of a misfortune. It is probable that its slow germination and the limited number of the roots formed placed the crop in better shape to encounter the unfavorable conditions of winter.

disappearance six months since, he traded disappearance six months since, he traded some Kansas property for property in Missouri. Six weeks after the doctor had disappeared, his neighbors met to inquire into the matter, but John Henderson, his nearest neighbor, told them to take no steps in the matter as Dr. Bradford was away so that his children could sue to recover the Kansas property back again, as it belonged to Mrs. Bradford, deceased, and they had not signed the deed. Consequently the matter was dropped. Some suspect foul play.

A Plea of Insanity

Cannot be urged in extenuation of the conduct o osts of people who constantly inflict injury upor themselves, and lay the foundation for seri and disastrous bodily trouble by the use, in season and out of season, upon slight necessity and without discrimination, of drastic vegetable cathartic and poisonous mineral cholarogues-notably the various forms of mercury-to relieve sim various forms of mercury—to relieve simply constipation, a complaint remediable at any stage by the persistent use of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. This famous remedy never gripes, evacuates too copiously or weakens the bowels. If there is any other tonic aperient in or out of the pharmacopes of which this can truthfully be said, we are unaware of it. Abandon the fatuous habit of dosing and use this benign regulator, which also sets right weakened stomachs and disordered livers. Rheumatism, neuralgia, siesplessness, loss of appetite, malaria, debility and kidney complaints are troubles all conquerable by the Bitters.

THE DEATH OF LAURA FITTS.

Mrs. Hotson's Attorneys Say They Hav an Unexpected Defense.

A pretty little spring bonnet, surm by a tiny robin's head, was stared at for the better part of an hour by the people who was perched on the fluffy brown hair of nose that turned up with much soom of the rather wide mouth underneath. The mouth was not closed for a minute at a time, but chattered away incessantly and with much laughing to another woman about 20 years old, who sat near. This one was quiet and grave and seemingly rather afreid of the court proceedings. Her light hair was dressed up high and a very plain black velvet bonnet was on it. Her gown was very simple, too, while the woman who talked to her was attired in a tailor-made gown, with a flippant little jacket and cloak. The woman who laughed was Mrs. Lizzle Hotson, the midwife who is to be tried on the charge of killing Laura Fitts by a medical operation. The woman who listened was her niece, Miss Kate Hotson, who is living with her. The case had been set for trial this morning, and the women were waiting for the court to open. George W. Dashman, who is to be tried on the charge of being accessory to the crime charged against Mrs. Hotson, was in court, but sat among the spectators, and did not make himself conspicuous by a single appearance within the bar. His trial will follow Mrs. Hotson's.

When Judge Normile had got through his docket. Judge James T. Green of De Soto, who had been selected to try the case, took his seat on the bench. State's Representative Orrick C. Bishop then asked the court to lay over the trial of the case, as Circuit Attorney Ashley C. Clover was fill with rheumatic fever. The attorneys consulted and Judge Green announced that he would begin the trial of the case Monday, April 18.

Mrs. Hotson got up when the announcement was made, cast a smiling glance in the direction of her attorneys, Marshall McDonald and T. B. Harvey, and McDonald say that they have agreed upon a line of defense that will be a surprise and will acquit their client. Charles P. Johnson, the special cousel for the State, says that he believes the attorneys intend to claim that the fatal operation was performed on Miss Fitus not by Mrs. Hotson, but by a physician. rather wide mouth underneath. The mouth was not closed for a minute at a time, but

A Big Suit on Kansas City Water-Works

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 11.-George D. Ford, a prominent banker of this city, Saturleclare vold the Water works bonds for $2,090,000 recently voted, and to annul all proceedings so far taken. He alleges that the charter amendments were never legally adopted, having been agreed upon in illegal special session of the Council. upon in illegal special session of the Council.
It is claimed that no proclamation was ever issued for the special session of the Council at which the ordinance providing for the election was introduced and passed; that the bonds were voted on at a general election contrary to law; that the city debt is thereby increased beyond constitutional limits, and that it is proposed to issue the bonds fraudulently.

THEY HAVE NOT RETURNED.

Mr. Charles Retter and Mrs. Otto Wonlen Still Missing.

The friends of Mr. Charles Retter, the jew eler at 1019 South Broadway, and of Mrs. Otto Wonlen are still awaiting their return. As stated in yesterday's Post-Dispatch, there are no grounds for the assertion that they went away from their respective families in each other's company. The coincidence that both left the city at the same time, however, is the one subject of conversation among their friends. Mr. Wonlen said to-day that he did not care much whether his wife returned or not. Mr. Retter's family areanxious for the return of their father to set all rumors at rest.

ANSON'S CHICAGO COLTS TO BATTLE WITH VON DER ARE'S BROWNS.

There Will Be a Street Parade in Honor of the Opening-The Racing Sesson in the West Commences at Memphis To-Day-Turf Talk and Sporting News of All Kinds

To-morrow afternoon the firing of six ombs at Sportsman's Park will be the notification that the first champtonship season of the National League-American Association has been inaugurated, and the St. Louis Browns and the Chicago White Stockings have started their first game of the first championship series of three games. Extensive preparations have been made by President Von der Ahe for the celebration of the event, and if the weather is at all pleasant Sportsman's Park will no doubt have one of the biggest crowds ever seen on an opening day. The two teams will parade, led by a band, in carriages. They will start from Sportsman's Park a little after will start from Sportsman's Parka little after 10 o'clock, going down Grand avenue to Washington avenue, thence to the Lindell Hotel, and from there the parade will continue through the principal streets back to Sportsman's Park. The champion, John L. Sullivan, has been invited to view the city via the parade. If he accepts he, Capt. Anson and Capt. Classecok, will, probably occuson and Capt. Glasscock will probably occupy one of the carriages. John L., with a number of other celebrities of gubernatorial note, and prominent citizens from Chicago and St. Louis, will be among the invited countries of the specific property. guests at the game. For the first time since the early '70s will the Chicagos play a championship game with the St. Louis Browns. John Sheridan will umpire the series. Play

The trouble of Capt. Anson and his Chicago colts has already commenced. They were to have arrived in St. Louis this morning, but failed to do so. For a while it was feared that they had fied to Canada or some other foreign land to avoid a meeting with Mr. Von der Ahe's celebrated collection of base ball talent. A sigh of relief was breathed by the st. Louis president when about noon he received a telegram from the missing Chicago capitaln, informing him that the Windy City aggregation had struck a washout, but would reach here at 1 p. m. aggregation had structed here at 1 p. m.

BASE BALL GOSSIP,

Kid Gleason and Buckley make a great bat-tery. They will lead the Chicago Colts a merry dance. St. Louis and Philadelphia, providing the weather is good to morrow, will lead the country in attendance. Homerun Ryan will cover center for Chicago. When he wants to Ryan can play the outfield as well as anybody.

President Capen of the Lindell Railway will ave on extra cars on the Vandeventer Exension for to-morrow's game. At Louisville yesterday the Colonels made their first appearance under Fred Pfeffer's captaincy, defeating the Milwaukee club by a score of 10 to s.

Ben Sanders will report at Louisville as soon as the regular term closes at Vanderbilt University, where Ben is taking a course in civil engineering.

Cub Stricker, the Browns' new infielder, and Jimmy Canavan, the new Chicago second-baseman, arrived in town yesterday and witnessed yesterday's game. Parson Nicholson, the second-baseman who was signed by the Browns last fall, was re-leased yesterday. The "Parson" immediately left for Toledo, where he will locate the com-

Little Cooney Anson's great shortstop will surprise the local cranks. He is one of the coming infielders, combining as he does everything that is necessary to make a successful ball player. Besides, he has the advantage of playing under such a great captain as the only Anson.

Dahlen and Catcher Kittredge are two famous ponies who will attract attention to-morrow. Dahlen is the youngster who relleved the veteran Tom Burns at third base last season. He is a wonderful player, and can traces are an play in the in or out fleid f necessary can play in the in or out field. Attredge is the catcher of the great Hutch-

The twelve club League opens its regular Championship season throughout the country to-morrow. The Northern club will play the Southern cities of the circuit, opening as follows: Chicago at St. Louis, Cleveland at Louisville, Pittsburg at Cincinnati, Boston at Washington, Brooklyn at Baltimore and New York at Philadelphia.

J. W. Spalding, the New York magnate, denied yesterday that he had held a conference with Mike Kelly recently. He said that the Glants would not pay anything for Mike Kelly's release, but if they could get him without giving a bonus they would be willing to take him, providing his terms were satisfactory and he conducted himself properly.

AMATEUR NINES. AMATEUR NINES.

The Salisburys defeated the St. Louis Reds vesterday by a score of 16 to 5.

The Friscos, a recently organized team composed of St. Louis & San Francisco Railway cierks, would be pleased to hear from any local railway teams of the city. Address all comunications to their captain, Robert Reid, Roe Building, Fifth and Pine.

The Hudsons defeated the Christian Brothers College Club yesterday afternoon at the College grounds by a score of 5 to 2.

THE TURF.

The initial gun of the Western campaign vill be fired at Memphis to-day, when the spring meeting at that point opens up. With ew exceptions, all the leading Western stables are quartered at Montgomery Park. Today's programme calls for five races, and of course the principal one is the Tennessee Derby, which will be run over a mile and an eighth course. Such good ones as Corrigan's Lew Weir and Phil Dwyer, Jim Brown's pair, Little Billy, who captured the Arkansas Derby, and Tom Elliott, the Charter Oak stable's Jim Murphy, will face the starter, and a splendid race ought to result. On the strength of their great performances at Little Rock Brown's pair had the call in the betting yesterday, but it is probable both the Brown and Corrigan entries will go to the post at 4 to 5, and take your pick, Jim Murphy's chances not being considered in the question. Hank Overton will ride Phil Dwyer, Delong will have the mount for Lew Weir, Hogget rides Little Billy and Britton will pilot Tom Elliott. Col. R. W. Semmans, John Overton, Jr., and B. Gratz will act as judges, and J. G. Sheridan will handle the starter's gong during the meeting. day's programme calls for five races, and of

BETTING ON THE BROOKLYN HANDICAP. As the time for the Brooklyn Handicap ap roaches the betting is getting down to figures which, in a measure, fairly represent the chances of the horses in the race. Owing to the fact that the Brooklyn brings out a lo of runners that have been in retirement fo four or five months, it is impossible to bet strictly on what is termed form. The odds at present quoted show, as might have been expected, Longstreet a moderate favorite. Despite his heavy impost he is liked by the majority of speculators. Moreover, there have been rumors of Longstreet's performances in late winter and early spring trials that have given his admirers renewed confidence. He is a grand horse, and one that does not shirk duty. He should win. Other dangerous ones are Judge Morrow, the big, four or five months, it is impossible to be formers on the turf.

Sir John, who has been heavily backed by his admirers to win the Brooklyn handleap, the word "full" being written opposite his name in several of the winter books, will not be a starter in that event. Phil Dwyer, when spoken to about Sir John being backed so heavily, said: "yes, I am sorry to see that, at least so far as the Brooklyn is concerned, for he won't start, and I hat to be compelled to put the pen through his name, as I would like the public to have a run for its money."

I. O. Appleby will resume the management of the Monmouth Park betting ring, providing there is racing there this season. It is said that an effort will be made to introduce the mutual system of betting.

the mutual system of betting.

Mr. Michael F. Dwyer has gone to Washington to induce the officials of the Washington meeting to change the conditions of their programme. It is said that several prominent owners, and among them Green B. Morris, have refused to go to Washington because of the poor programme.

A. F. Wolcott, the newly elected member of the board and proprietor of Monmouth Park, is a man of great determination, and he recently said that there would be racing at Monmouth Park this summer, if there was not a bet made on the track. Mr. Wolcott is a rich man and can afford to carry out his ideas.

The Dwyers have not definitely decided whether they will fight the pool rooms again this spring as they did last season. If the fight is made they will have to take it up single-handed, as they did before, for neither the Coney Island, Morris Park nor Monmouth Association can very well afford to join them. The present indications are that satisfactory terms will be made before the season opens and that the scenes of last year will not be repeated.

ST. PAUL, Minn., April 11.—McHugh, de-deated last night by Moth for the wrestling championship of the Northwest, has an feat Moth and wants to try to do so for $1,00 and the championship, reserving to himself the naming of the date. Each man has de-feated the other once, and if a contest is arranged it will be a lively one.

SPORTING NOTES. The Paulian Athletic Club of the Christian Brothers' College held a preparatory meeting last Saturday afternoon for their annual field day, which will be held June 15. The events were all handicaps and were won as follows: 100-yard dash, G. Smith; 220-yard hurdle, G. Smith; half-mile run, F. Calloway; one-mile run, M. Chavez; putting 56-pound shot, J. Desberger.

At Albuquerque, N. M., yesterday Mc-Coy and Cotton fought for the middleweight championship of the Southwest. McCoy went to the floor in the fifth round from a blow on the chin and falled to respond to the call of time. Cotton was awarded the contest. Most of the spectators who gave up $2.50 to witness the affair declared it to be a fake. Bill Johnson, known as the "Terrible Swede," fought Arthur Upton, the New Orleans middleweight, an eighteen round draw at Jimtown, Colo., yesterday. A contest to a finish between the pair has been arranged to take place shortly.

Maj. Bunicke's Death.

Maj. Julius Hunicke, ex-Police Commissioner and Superintendent of the Schnaide Brewery Co., died at the Alexian Brothers Hospital last evening. Softening of the brain, the result of an accident which befell him three years ago, was the cause. The deceased was 52 years old. He leaves a daughter residing at 1925 Gever avenue. The funeral will be held from the hospital. Maj. Hunicke was an old resident of St. Louis and was widely known and very popular. His mind falled him several months ago, and his health otherwise has been poor ever since.
